NORWAY VICINITY

Dear Reader:
These few lines are set in type for a special reason.
Had a local merchant used a little more advertising space, we would not have had to use them.
Had one of our women murdered her husband, run off with the leechman, had twins, or sent us some neighborhood news, everything would have been all right.
In fact, we don't care whether you read this item or not.
Something had to go into "his space," and this is it.
We don't think much of it ourselves—but you want to see white space?
THE EDITOR.

ICE CREAM HISTORY

Each man, woman and child in New England eats at least two gallons of ice cream a year, according to figures which show that the annual consumption in the New England section is 15 million gallons annually. That's a lot of ice cream.
We have been eating ice cream for over 500 years it seems. In 1235, according to a legend, a Roman shepherd boy travelling through the snow covered mountains of Italy, discovered that the milk provisions which he carried in a goat skin bag upon his back had been frozen to the consistency of custard while being subjected to churning movements as he tramped along the trail. This frozen mess, we are assured by an eminent authority, was the original ice cream.
It is next heard of being served to Catherine de Medici, Queen of Henry II, in 1547. Napoleon and Empress Josephine enjoyed many a plate of ice cream at a dinner attended by George Washington and with Dolly Madison is credited with the introduction of frozen desserts in America.
Ice cream sodas evidently originated at the Philadelphia Centennial Exposition in 1876. Ice cream cones were first seen at the World's Fair in Chicago in 1893.
A new mechanical testing device has been invented by scientists of the U. S. Department of Agriculture that removes the hulls from rough rice and shows the hardness or milling quality as well as yield that can be obtained by milling the rough rice.
If sweet clover is planted in winter, unsprayed or unharmed seeds may be used. The action of moisture and frost breaks the seed coat and the seed is ready to sprout with the first warm weather.
Many a man who gave marriage serious thought is still in the bachelor class.

Artist Born In Greenwood
Pictures by Atherton Furlong Are On Exhibition in Boston

From the Boston Transcript, February 2:
Atherton Furlong died in 1919, better known as the greatest oratorical teacher of his day than as a painter. And yet canvases from his brush have been seen in many private collections of the way into many a museum. One of the country's most honored was a "one-man" exhibition in 1900 at Metropolitan Museum, and an animal painting of his, "Jerry," a prize bull, was purchased by the old Shaws Gallery of New York in the late eighties for $15,000, an enormous sum for the work of a living painter.
Boston knew Furlong well, knew him in his youth as Furlong well, knew him in his youth as a successful musician, writer and artist.

This week there opened here a memorial exhibition of his work, and the throng attending the tea and reception of the first day was reported to have been the largest of the season at the Casson Gallery on Boylston Street. The exhibition is sponsored by the son of the artist, Colonel Charles W. Furlong, himself a painter and lecturer.

The exhibition contains twenty-three landscape studies, all belonging to the later period of the painter's life, and executed for the most part in Maine.
Self-Taught
In art, as in his musical career, it is said that Mr. Furlong received no formal education, although in the latter there is evident a strong affinity with the school of his time. In landscape he worked mostly in the subdued tones, which invariably tended either to gold or silver. His work had poetic suggestiveness, and in a life he turned known as a painter of animals than landscape. But in later life he turned more and more to the latter, and it is of these latter works that the memorial show is composed. Two of the most interesting landscapes now shown are "Misty Morning" and "Grey Dawn," both works done from the higher side, yet having of them pictures the artist seemed particularly able. In the lower golden range, "Wing Sweep" of which I have written above, is a canvas of strong appeal.

Furlong laid his paint on heavy, often working with a palette knife. The inevitable has happened, the fingers since his death has seen the color mellow and richen.

A Son's Tribute
In an introductory to the exhibition catalog, the artist son says: "Atherton Furlong, painter, musician and teacher, was born in Greenwood, Maine, in 1852. Scenes of forest, sky and farm life about him inspired his paintings; the trees whispered poems that stirred his soul; the winds seemed to sweep the great land of the forest across his canvas. His art was the heart of nature and hand it beat."
"Boston knew him in the early days of his career when, at twenty-two, he became a member of the Académie de la Peinture, also assumed the unpaid directorship of Park Street Church during the pastorate of Rev. W. H. Murray. Among those under his instruction were Lillian Norton, "Nadia" and Anna Louis, great-grandchildren of America's most noted church singers."

"He soon developed one of the most remarkable lyric tones of voice of the day, with the result that he was called to sing and where he became the leading oratorical talent. Besides his own famous recitals, his voice was heard at the Sacred Harmonic Society in London, the oldest musical society in the world, at the time of Royal Albert Hall and at Buckingham Palace in the Royal State Concert, where his voice blended with that of the immortal Patti. Mme. Patti with Sims Reeves, Sanley and Mme. Allard were among his closest friends. His career in England was marked with all possible honors."

"A book of poems, 'Edith of Memory', flowed from his pen and later a novel entitled 'Zona Pond' and a play, 'The Last Load', owned by Chas. F. Yerkes of Chicago. 'The Midnight Watch' owned by Hanna Noves, and 'Head of Young Bull', owned by Mrs. J. Whitcomb Cotton of Boston, are among some of his well-known paintings in this country."

"His work is distinguished by great individuality. It is strong and positive, yet with a refinement and delicate touch to describe. His paintings of forest and trees have a rare poetic quality which seems to embody the very essence of the musical and poetic nature. Always an indefatigable worker, he found him creating some of his strongest works when death came in 1919."

Editorial Note—We wonder if someone can tell us some other facts about members of the Furlong family, which once was well known in Albany and Greenwood, and for whom Zona Pond is said to have been named. The pond lies in those two towns in Norway.

 Circle Entertained—Clifford Holden Operated Upon—Mrs. McElroy Returned Home.
 The Church Circle was entertained
 Wednesday evening, Feb. 27th, by Miss Endora W. Gould. After the supper was served a short entertainment followed.
 Mrs. Florence V. Holden gave a recitation, "The Soldier's Little Daughter," which was followed by an encore, "The Main Thing." The encore was a very humorous selection and received much applause. J. G. Chadbourne rendered a vocal solo, "The Old Ragged Cross." A Community singing and guessing games, with Mrs. Julia Chadbourne in charge,
 were enjoyed by all present.
 Clifford G. Holden, who is in the Children's Hospital in Portland, has recently undergone a very delicate operation on his right shoulder. He is doing nicely at this writing. His mother, Mrs.
 Florence V. Holden has been to Portland to see his several times within the past two weeks. If Clifford's operation is successful, a similar one will be performed on his left shoulder, later.
 Kenneth L. Holden and Conrad Mullen are taking trumpet lessons every Saturday of Charles Mackay of Bridgton Village. The boys are progressing finely in their music.
 On Thursday afternoon, Feb. 28th, Mrs.
 Charles Hill entertained a party of her friends at whist at her home on Main Street.
 J. E. Bird, who has been ill, is much improved in health and is able to be out.
 Mrs. Daisy McElroy, who has been visiting in New York City for several weeks, has recently returned to her home here on Main Street.

NEED PROPER FOODS TO KEEP THE BODY FIT

How many persons realize that it is quite possible to be well fed and at the same time not properly nourished? In other words, too many folks satisfy their appetites but do not always supply their bodies need. The one who plans the meals should bear in mind to be well nourished the daily meals must supply:

- (1) Foods that will give the body energy to do its work. The best sources of energy and heat-yielding foods are sugars and starches and fats. Fat meats such as bacon are especially good sources of energy.
- (2) The body must have building material for repair and for growth. This means that the daily diet must contain good protein and there is no better source of protein of high quality than meat.
- (3) Minerals and vitamins are vital as body regulators. Fruits and green vegetables for minerals and for vitamins should be included liberally in the diet. Lean beef heads the list of the foods which are rich in iron. Milk is valuable for its minerals, especially calcium, and for protein and vitamins. Water also is a body regulator.

Most people wouldn't want their own way if they could have it.

Fryeburg Town Meeting

Viewed and Reviewed by the Fliver Editor, C. R. Mills

March the fourth in '29

U. S. A. is feeling fine. Herbert Hoover takes his station, chosen first to lead the nation. At the grand inauguration, And he'll lead us in the nation. But there's one thing I'd explain, folks, and try to make it plain; The pump in Washington, it's not a pump, it's a bull's head. Of town meeting, Fryeburg, Maine.

Walter Smith of "Tanworth City." On your humble scribbles, took pity. What a joy to ride with Walter at the wheel. And I'll say "twice you and I." His one weakness, his cussedness. Though this fact, of course, I'm trying to conceal.

Over Indian Acre Ridge. Cross the temporary bridge. Walk guided us with customary skill; And I made "Tom" give a dirty dig. As we passed each chugging "Lizzie." And we thought of "Sag McKean," at Paige's bill.

Soon, the old town hall was near. And our car was loudly cheered. By the multitude waiting to proclaim. Heartily greetings all around. Chattering and cheering above. For good fellowship, our town is surely famed.

Harvey's much spare time to lose. Moderator we must choose. "Chas" Buzzell's name elected to preside. He can render a decision. With sound judgment and precision. And a manner that is highly signified.

Harriet Abbott, next, for clerk. Guess she sort of likes the work. And she surely has our commendation. (Some officials, we've discerned. May like work, but they're concerned. Mostly 'bout the matter of remuneration.)

To accept the town reports. Without receding to the courts. George Nickerson told us would be a shame. And he says: "Now friends, why is it. Election can't be more explicit? This sort of town report goes 'gainst the state."

George laid it on quite thick. And there's no more agreed with "Nick." That Herbert accounts for making things clear. So we can't don't be stalling. For the extra bit of printing. Won't make the town reports a whole lot dearer.

For selection, cast your vote. McDonald, (please take note) will serve you with his wisdom, tact, and knowledge. Simon Gifford served us well. "Sim" can stick around a spell. And for David, we'll try Earl Osgood, fresh from college.

For town treasurer, Warren's honored. Though the contest was keen. Warren had "bought" every vote, when they were counted. And we'll water George felt good. When he found just where he stood. And law suits opposing had amounted.

Berlin Tinker's sitting pretty. Three more years on school committee. Education is the theme kept on. You can bet your last this time. That he'll keep "up to time." As he did the folks in Waterville, Conn.

Road commissioners are the same. That in past have garnered fame. "Still Barker and his law," C. P. Gray. Just how long they'll choose to run. Would like to know, for I'm a fan. It looks as though they both intend to stay. Susan Baker got a laugh. And the ladies, two and a half. Just how she'll spend her salary is perplexing.

But will give three cheers for "Sue." If her salary she should lose. It wouldn't be a matter very vexing. Clifford Eastman's fire ward. Trenchard of salary, he abhorred. "He'll fill the other shilly, with a plea. And for the other shilly, with a plea. And for the other shilly, with a plea. And for the other shilly, with a plea.

Next appropriations come. For our roads, a new snow pump; $800 for a new snow pump, if needed. Bridges also have a share. Gotta keep 'em in repair. No plea for highway funds shall go unheeded. Article number twenty-two. To see what the town would do. To "tavin Oxford Street, both near and far. Road commissioner, C. P. Gray, said: "As if he could say. That Oxford Street was not in shape to far."

Then Will Leavitt shot his grape. Said the street should be in shape. The committee had sure a time enough. They'd had surely time to mend it. Spread the tar, and that would end it. If our highway men were only up to snuff. Then our old time comrade "Zardy" In a motion that was tardy. Said, "No 'mess o' er' should be the measure taken."

Said, the street was like an ocean. But friend Zardy lost his motion. When others thought he must have been mis-taken. Oxford Street will be tarred down. Same as other streets in town; We're glad to see them have their share of money. When we're working for construction. Why obstruct, and cause a mecton? Such tactics, in town meeting, seem so funny.

But also, another rab. Some would move the "wasting tab." That granite shaft at head of Portland St. Jerry Kleiman was opposed. And he said that he had been told. As a guide for traffic, it was hard to beat. Said "was made of solid rock. And of course 'twould stand the shock. Of a my 'lady Lizzie' on a frolic. Of a my 'lady Lizzie' on a frolic. Of a my 'lady Lizzie' on a frolic. Of a my 'lady Lizzie' on a frolic.

Everyone could quench their thirst. At this lovely fountain place, non-alcoholic. Well we raised a heap for schools. Which is where our good sense rules. And for music, which combines our work with pleasure. Mr. Hurd, our song instructor. And our orchestra conductor. Said he'd always given us a "brimming measure."

North Fryeburg needs a doctor. An efficient "pill conector." We'll gladly donate him five hundred forty. And the neighboring towns of Stow and Chatham, will furnish him. To keep his car and clothes from looking queerly. To our local legal Legion. Representing all our region. Of whose wartime record we are justly proud. To contribute towards your hall. Is a pleasure to us all. Just bet we're mighty glad to be allowed. Where the reckless drivers speed. Past our schoolhouse, there's a need. Of a playground, with a sturdy boy-proof fence.

Where our kids can romp and play. Out of everybody's way. But our townsmen thought the price would be immense. Thought Clem Towle, by being fleet. Could keep the kiddies off the street. And bait the speeding cars from east and west. Said the fence would cost too much. Gotta be more careful how we folks invest. But a little later on. "Neither article, we're upon. We gotta have some snow fence, that is true. A thousand's not too much. To invest in fence for such. Now, which fence is more important, I'll ask you?"

Well I must that this will do. Every line is almost true. The "sisters' feed" was absolutely right. I heard Frank L. Mark unwitting. And by one fair matron, twisted. About his most prodigious appetite. I must close this, now or never. I could ramble on forever. And I'll bid you all adieu, if not good-bye. We will stop for intermission. But next year, with your permission. I'll happen in, and finish up the M. S. MILLS. Fryeburg, Me., March 4, 1929.

Of a my 'lady Lizzie' on a frolic. Of a my 'lady Lizzie' on a frolic.

Everyone could quench their thirst. At this lovely fountain place, non-alcoholic. Well we raised a heap for schools. Which is where our good sense rules. And for music, which combines our work with pleasure. Mr. Hurd, our song instructor. And our orchestra conductor. Said he'd always given us a "brimming measure."

North Fryeburg needs a doctor. An efficient "pill conector." We'll gladly donate him five hundred forty. And the neighboring towns of Stow and Chatham, will furnish him. To keep his car and clothes from looking queerly. To our local legal Legion. Representing all our region. Of whose wartime record we are justly proud. To contribute towards your hall. Is a pleasure to us all. Just bet we're mighty glad to be allowed. Where the reckless drivers speed. Past our schoolhouse, there's a need. Of a playground, with a sturdy boy-proof fence.

Where our kids can romp and play. Out of everybody's way. But our townsmen thought the price would be immense. Thought Clem Towle, by being fleet. Could keep the kiddies off the street. And bait the speeding cars from east and west. Said the fence would cost too much. Gotta be more careful how we folks invest. But a little later on. "Neither article, we're upon. We gotta have some snow fence, that is true. A thousand's not too much. To invest in fence for such. Now, which fence is more important, I'll ask you?"

Well I must that this will do. Every line is almost true. The "sisters' feed" was absolutely right. I heard Frank L. Mark unwitting. And by one fair matron, twisted. About his most prodigious appetite. I must close this, now or never. I could ramble on forever. And I'll bid you all adieu, if not good-bye. We will stop for intermission. But next year, with your permission. I'll happen in, and finish up the M. S. MILLS. Fryeburg, Me., March 4, 1929.

Pomona Grange Meeting—Snowshoe Hike

Tuesday was warm, but rainy and rather slushy underfoot, but all the same, about 200 people or more gathered at the Grange Hall for their March meeting of the Pomona Grange. Four candidates were in waiting to take the fifth degree and greatly enjoyed the work, which has been made prettier in the last year or so. A beautiful dinner was served, to which all did ample justice and then there were quantities left over. The dining hall was decorated with the grange colors, yellow, pink, and blue, with crepe paper napkin rings to match, for souvenirs. The speaker for the afternoon was Mr. Canham of Auburn, with one of his breezy talks about his trip abroad last summer and this time it was more in detail of the Jersey and Guernsey Island with some of France and England added and all was prefaced on law abiding, suggested to him by President Hoover's inaugural program were several selections by the high school orchestra of five pieces, two old time songs by H. SUNCOOK GRANGE SHOWER

On the evening of the 15th of February, 1929, the "Grangers" gathered together to give Elmon and Esther a jolly good time. The traveling was good, the night bright and fair. With a nice moon, and a little frost in the air. He drives a Buick, with a green light. Which can plainly be seen, on any dark night. She is a girl with auburn hair. If you ask what I think, they make a sick pair. Olive and Ella were committee on decorations. And to do their best, for the happy occasion.

The table was decorated, with a large, white wedding, bell. The ones that sat under it looked very well. Streamers were used, of red and green. The prettiest shades you have ever seen. The lunch was very nifty and fine. For place cards they used small valentines. Each one, in turn must read their verse. Without any time to stop and rehearse. This caused much fun and laughter. And helped digest the lunch that came soon.

One cake was decorated, white, with brown frosting on. The other, red and green, a bride and groom did adorn. She had on a railway coat, and slick hair. She had on a proper bride should wear. The cakes were in front of the bride and groom. Which she had to eat, and eat and eat. What next, you will want to say. To look at the presents, "Oh, what an array." Pretty enough for any King. Charles and Ruth next, with a condom set. The cutest one I have ever seen yet. Dell couldn't come, so Ole tried to fill his place. She brought along a pair of embroidered pillow cases.

He took a Turkish towel for a change. Herbert and Ella brought a table runner. She worked on it all winter and part of the summer. A handsome glass dish was brought by Grace. Pretty enough to use in any place. Inna, Esther's chum, gave a Japanese tea set. It came from Japan, a China tea set. Next, along came Burton and Freddy. With a wall pocket for flowers to have ready. Next is also a new sweater and a new pair of shoes. A pretty celery dish he did buy. Peas and Buttery said a bet to be used for olives or cheese. To be used now, or whenever they please. Della brought a pink glass dish, night set. To be used by the dries, and not the wets. But she brought a pair of embroidered pillow cases. She did not come as she was not able. Bertha is not yet a member of the Grange. But she brought along a towel so they would have a change.

Gene was sick and Sadie couldn't drive the car. So she wouldn't leave him alone to go so far. We hope next time he will be full of "peas." Then we will have the jolliest Grange meeting yet. Now this wonderful tale is nearly done. The happy couple were covered with confetti and wished they could run. So here ends my silly little rhyme. If you like it, I'll write another sometime. —MRS. HERBERT O. MCKEEN.

When buying sheets, be careful to get them the right size for your beds. Sheets that are too short or too narrow do not make for the comfort of the sleeper. Many people like to allow at least fourteen inches on each side for turning up and from fourteen to eighteen inches at each end to tuck up at the foot and fold down over the blankets or comfortables to keep them clean. Consequently sheets should be at least twenty-eight inches wider than the mattress and from twenty-eight to thirty-six inches longer. It is now possible to buy sheets with the same width, tops, top and bottom. This insures longer wear since the sheets can be reversed. Choose sheets that are torn before hemming, rather than clean, if possible, so that the hems will iron straight.

Willard Farr, John Herick, Hazel Herick, Robert Johnson, Helen Oliver, Muriel Emery, Ovidia Roberts, Ovidia Roberts, and Miss Robert Johnson

Started on a snowshoe party to Berry's Lodge. The boys, arriving first, arranged a beautiful fire, where they all gathered and roasted hot dogs and toasted marshmallows, which was lots of fun. After playing several games that they all enjoyed, they started snowshoeing, very happily, for home.
